

Kevin Skerrett, a laboratory engineer in the Optical Materials Group, is shown filling a liquid-crystal circular polarizer. The device is used to maintain circular polarization through the amplification stages of OMEGA.