

Steve Jacobs testing performance of liquid crystal isolator. These passive devices hold promise as large scale isolators for high power laser systems. This review reports on the design of liquid crystal waveplates and their potential for replacing more expensive optical materials.