

Optical alignment of the subpicosecond electro-optic sampling system is fine tuned by Kevin Meyer, a graduate student in physics and a member of the Picosecond Research Group. The system is used to study ultrafast electrical signals.